

County Board Turns Down Bond Issue

Chairman Lankenau Fails to Present Petition of Mokena Good Roads Association

Good roads advocates of Mokena and Will County were given a hard rebuff by the county board when an effort was made to get the board to sanction an election for the purpose of a $2,500,000 hard road bond issue. The board was addressed by Senator R. J. Barr and Mr. Blackhall, president of the Joliet Chamber of Commerce on the issue, but refused to take any action on the matter and thru its chairman Wm. Lankenau, hurried an adjournment of the board. The roll call stood 29 for adjournment and 10 opposed. Supervisor Welter of Homer tried hard to get the board to give the citizens of the county a voice in the matter, but he was ignored.

At the meeting of the Mokena Development and Hard Road Improvement Association held Monday night much dissatisfaction and displeasure was registered against the attitude of Chairman Wm. Lankenau in the county hard road bond issue matter and the citizens of the community feel Mr. Lankenau owes them an explanation why he failed to bring the resolution of the local hard roads association before the county board as he had agreed to do. Chairman Ona McGovney who presented the resolution to Mr. Lankenau stated that Mr. Lankenau had promised him to bring the petition before the board, but that he simply put the petition in his pocket and said no more about it.

When office holders ignore the pleas and wishes of their constituents they may rest assured when they come around again seeking votes, they will find a justly earned defeat awaiting them.

The Mokena Association has decided to get the Kankakee Chamber of Commerce as well as other civic bodies interested in the Wolf road project. The various motor clubs are also being asked to give assistance in the fight to put Wolf road over. Another move is to get petitions circulated and signed in every township in Will County asking the board of supervisors to reconsider the county hard road issue at their March meeting. The hard roads advocates are going to show the county board they are not going to lay down just because they have been rebuffed by the board.

Another meeting of the Mokena Association will be held at the Mokena school next Monday night and a written and an oral invitation has been extended to Chairman Lankenau to attend this meeting.

As this meeting is of utmost importance it is urged that every wide awake citizen in Mokena be present. Come and bring your neighbor and friends. The following were named on the board of directors: Peter Michelson, Elmer L. Cooper, Don C. Hall, N. F. Heiman and Emil Cappel.

A committee on stationery was named as follows: Herman Schweser, Ona McGovney and L. G. Bruder.

Don C. Hall Co. Scores Big Hit In "Enoch Arden"

The Don C. Hall Company of Mokena scored a big success at the local M. E. church last Friday evening in their splendid benefit presentation of the world famous drama of Tennyson's "Enoch Arden". The Hall family comprised the entire cast and showed real dramatic ability and carried out their various roles in a wonderful manner. The elder members of the company, Mr. and Mrs. Don C. Hall, Sr., were really wonderful in their dramatic work. Both have taken part in this drama for many years in some of the leading show houses in the largest cities of the country. Few people realized heretofore what wonderful dramatic talent we have in our midst. All who attended the performance Friday night were highly pleased.

Tame Squirrel Shooting Violation

Judge John F. Schultz has reported that for sometime there have been a number of tame pet squirrels in the village and in the past week some law defying, unsportsmanlike hunter has shot all of them. Judge Schultz says that it is against the law to shoot game inside the village and the hunting season on squirrels is closed. There is a drive on now to stop such illegal hunting and Judge Schultz states that offenders regardless of who they are will be punished to the full extent of the law.

Mokena Looking For Completion of Drainage

Last fall a move was begun to create a new drainage system for the property owners of the south side of Mokena. As all of the cellar drainage as well as the water of the streets of the village having a waterfall to the southwest runs in a natural waterway thru the land of Peter Michelson. As Mr. Michelson has had this land laid out in lots he does not want an open ditch running thru his land so he made an offer to the property owners as well as the village board to lay a string of big sewer tile in place of the ditch if the property owners as well as the village would pay toward the cost of the improvement. An engineer was engaged and the cost was estimated and the share each would have to pay, but here the matter has rested so far. The parties interested in the project are wondering what will be done about the matter this spring.

Another matter that is claiming special attention is the cleaning up of the old cemetery next to the Peter Michelson place. This old burial plot is the resting place of the founders of the village, yet it is allowed to become overgrown with a dense growth brush and weeds each year which makes this spot a real eyesore to the community. The progressive citizens of the community feel that steps should be taken against a recurrence of this situation this summer.

ELECTRIC WORK MUST BE GOOD

When you make a purchase on which you may have to depend for a lifetime's service, your thought is "how good" rather than "how cheap". This is especially true when the best costs but little more than an inferior product. It is in the highest degree true of house wiring for electricity. You will never see the most important part—the part that is hidden behind the walls; you cannot inspect it before buying.

How, then, shall you choose? The answer is, "On faith"—faith in the responsibility, experience, skill and good repute of the electrical contractor who is to install it—faith in his use of only the highest quality material.

Only when a contractor has demonstrated that he possesses these qualifications and that all his material is invariably of the best, has he earned the right to your confidence for doing the all-important electrical work in your new or old home.

Handicap to Genius

Doctor Johnson undertook to learn the Dutch language but a few years before his death. His daily amusement about this time consisted in committing to memory about eight hundred lines of Virgil. At the age of seventy-three, when suffering from a severe attack of paralysis which rendered him all but speechless, he composed a Latin prayer, in order to test his power of memory.

MUCH MONEY IS SPENT ON GOLF

Yearly Tax One and Quarter Billion Dollars.

Golf is a game for the millions, but its upkeep runs into the billions, making it one of America's leading industries. Figures compiled, after a round-up of statistics covering nearly four weeks by Ray McCarthy, one of the country's foremost golf writers and promoters, reveal the astounding fact that golfers in the United States spend at least one and a quarter billion dollars every 12 months merely for the maintenance of their game.

This expenditure of $1,250,000,000 each year is confined to the actual cost of playing the game. The enormous total is spent only on dues, balls, clubs, clothes, caddy hire, luncheons and incidentals such as tips, ready tees, etc. It does not take in the property value of club executives, clerks and other help.

Conservative figures are presented by McCarthy, based on experience in playing the game and years of observation, and he finds that golf costs each player in the United States an average of $1,000 a year. McCarthy has projected more major matches on the links than any other man in the sport, and has directed the transcontinental tours of many prominent players, including Gene Sarazen, Jim Barnes and Jack Hutchison. He is at present sports director for the Florida East Coast system.

According to the tabulation compiled by McCarthy, there are about 1,250,000 golfers in this land today. There are 3,500 courses, and with the club membership averaging only 300, the total of players reaches 1,050,000. There are at least 200,000 playing the municipal links throughout the country.

The average yearly cost to the player, of $1,000, is apportioned as follows: Club dues, $100; balls, $100; clubs (replenishing), $30; clothes, $200; luncheons, $400; caddies, $100; incidentals, $70.

These are all conservative figures, based on a symposium among hundreds of golfers. In this total are not figured the expense of cleaning of clubs, functions, lessons, or purchasing of stock to join a club. The municipal golfer hasn't the club dues, of course, but his green fees will average $100 a year. Some of the players stated their golf cost them $2,000 a year. Others said it was around $800.

Further figuring brings the annual cost of golf in America up to $1,500,000,000. The extra $250,000,000 takes in hotel and travel expenses; cost of cigars and cigarettes consumed during golf rounds, and the drink bill—even ginger ale is costly.

The cost of golf is stupendous, and is a serious problem for the United States Golf association, which is making every effort to keep down the expenditures necessary in connection with the sport. The $1,000 estimate is really low, yet it does not curtail the number of new players that take up the game every year. It has taken about 33 years to develop a playing clientele of 1,250,000, but if the cost is reduced even slightly, it should not take more than five years to bring another million players into the fold.

About half a million dollars was involved in this golf pilgrimage, as follows: Railroad fares, $40,000; meals and other expenses on train rides, $10,000; hotel bills, $25,000; clothes for the trip, $100,000; equipment, $34,000; purchases during stay in St. Augustine, $150,000; salaries of members during absence from business, $150,000.

Curves Way to Fame

Crusader Biggest Money Winner

Champion Three-Year-Old of 1926.

Crusader, the magnificent chestnut colt by Man O' War-Star Fancy, is the three-year-old champion of 1926.

His winnings for the year total $166,033. He is the property of Samuel D. Riddle, of Philadelphia, who bred him and who owns his sire. Other leading three-year-olds are E. R. Bradley's Boot to Boot, with $114,920 to his credit; Walter J. Salmon's Display, with $104,422, and the Chula Vista stable's Carlaris, with $100,375.

To Scapa Flow, owned by Walter M. Jeffords, by Man O' War-Florence Webber, goes the honor of champion of two-year-olds, according to many authorities, including the Jockey club, although his winnings, $81,405, do not equal those of William du Pont's Fair Star, with $88,900.

There are many who will claim that Joseph T. Widener's Osmand is a better juvenile than either, but there is no way to settle this question. Osmand won six races out of seven starts, and his stablemate won the race he lost. Osmand, being a gelding, was shut out from several of the larger stakes.

The leading stallion for the year is Man O' War, the superhorse, by Fair Play-Mahuba, carrying that illustrious record on the turf to the nursery, and in his third year as a sire sending to the races winners of a total of $358,612.

E. R. Bradley's North Star II is second among American sires, with $351,978. He is an older horse and has 42 offspring in racing, whereas Man O' War has only 25.

Therefore, in his third year as a sire, Man O' War has set not only an American, but a world record, in the earning power and quality of his offspring. It was in 1919 that this golden-hued colt swept across the racing world like a meteor, and as a three-year-old added to his renown.

Tex to Lose Title

Prediction by Tex Rickard (shown in the photo) that Sammy Mandell will be one of the four title-holders to be dethroned in 1927 has drawn a reply from the lightweight champion that "Rickard will lose his title of world's champion boxing promoter, too." Rickard forecast that Mickey Walker, middleweight, Pete Latzo, welterweight, and Charley (Phil) Rosenberg, bantamweight, also will yield their mantles.

Baseball in Ireland

Manager Bucky Harris, upon his return from Europe, where he went on his honeymoon, declared he believed Ireland had the best chance of taking to baseball. "I think the Irish will in time turn to baseball," said the bridge player. "She is seeking games that will divorce her from English sports." When one runs an eye over the major league managers—McGraw, McCarthy, Mack, Moriarty, Howley, McInnis, Hendricks, Bush and Carrigan—it would seem that the Irish are pretty well in charge of the teams—over here.

Sport Notes

The Boston Red Sox are going to train again at New Orleans.

Ohio State football eleven has Princeton listed for a game November 5, 1927.

Jack Delaney is planning a tour which may take him as far west as the Pacific coast.

The size of the baseball diamond has remained the same since the earliest days of the game.

New York racing associations distributed $2,230,000 in stakes and purses to owners in 1926.

Bob Coleman, veteran catcher, has been signed as manager of the Knoxville team of the South Atlantic league.

In American football this season, James J. Fitzgerald of Tufts made the longest field goal by drop kick—55 yards.

Why doesn't New York just organize an eight-team major league inside the city and always have a winner?

Once upon a time a man made a sad mistake: He went into a barber shop for a quick shave the day after a baseball scandal broke.

An incurable cynic is one who will call up a friend on the team next summer and ask him how the game is going to come out tomorrow.

A Voice That Wants toReach Every Mother

Flint, Mich.—"I am the mother of eight children and during each of my expectant periods I took Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it kept my nerves in good condition, kept me so well and strong that I was always able to do all my own work—never suffered like so many do. While the 'Favorite Prescription' strengthens and keeps the prospective mother well, it is also helping to make the child healthy and strong. I would not think of going through the ordeal of motherhood without taking the 'Prescription.'"—Mrs. Charles Gurnell, 1639 St. John St. Send 10c to Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Birds Change Mates

The idea that birds never get divorces but stick to their first loves throughout life received a rude jolt the other day when S. Prentiss Baldwin of Cleveland announced the results of a ten-year intensive study of bird habits.

Mr. Baldwin kept a day-by-day record of the lives of a number of household wrens that nested on his estate. These wrens, according to his report in Popular Science Monthly, usually raised two broods of young a year. But each year, between the broods, the parents usually changed mates. The mating lasted only while the young birds were helpless; then the parents felt free to make a new marital arrangement.

Tanlac Responds to Call For Relief From Pain

Amazing Improvement in Miss Haberbush's Health Surprises Friends. Boils and Other Troubles Caused by Nervousness and Upset Stomach Relieved. Gains 15 Pounds

Thousands of Illinois men and women suffering from nervousness and run-down condition may discover the surest way to get quick relief in the experience of Miss Mary Haberbush, 2821 Prairie Avenue, Chicago, whose marvelous recovery from a long siege of suffering surprised everyone.

If you are tired and fagged-out; if your stomach rebels at taking food and you spend miserable hours doubled up with pain caused by indigestion; if you do not sleep soundly and dizzy spells attack you when you stoop over; if you are losing weight and feel old—watch out!

"Three years ago I was in a run-down weakened condition," says Miss Haberbush. "Suffering from indigestion, being unable to sleep and getting up in the morning after a long night of tossing and turning, tired, sapped my strength. Poisons went through my system and bad blood caused boils that pained terribly and compelled me to carry my arm in a sling."

"I sought relief but failed. Then a friend told me of Tanlac. The first bottle gave me an appetite. Indigestion and boils gradually disappeared. I began to sleep better and arise re-

Salts Fine for Aching Kidneys

When Back Hurts Flush Your Kidneys as You Clean Your Bowels

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

Charming Fabrics for Evening Wear

Metallic Effects Are Much Affected; Softer Models Also Seen.

Evening dress for the midwinter season is perhaps the most elaborate and most varied of the whole year, observes a fashion writer in the New York Times. Women of fashion must of necessity get together a wardrobe which will in every way meet the requirements of a metropolitan season as well as diverse needs of the Southern resorts.

Evening gowns, wraps and accessories, created for both town and resort wear, were never more engaging than those that now are being shown. All of the designs and fabrics that were introduced in the autumn are being done in ways that are most flattering, with a few sensational favorites for which there is a sort of craze. This is evident in the armorlike spangled gowns and in the regal wraps of metal cloth, jewel studded and embroidered and usually trimmed with one of the new furs or ostrich or fringe. Each of these is designed for either town or resort, with the same latitude apparent in all of the merging season styles which permit furs for summer and crepes for winter.

In Velvet and Fur.

For formal occasions, such as the dinners and dances that will bring the mid-winter season to its peak, Paris couturiers have sent a number of different models in velvet and fur, the acme of elegance and luxury. Drecoll has designed some of the handsomest costumes ever received from this house, one of which is of the new "transparent" velvet in shades of apricot, the material being draped in gentle lines and bordered with wide bands of fox in a subtly blended shade of beige. Molyneux has accomplished some of the most distinguished costumes for evening that have been seen for many seasons, in particular some which have been worn by the fashionable brides of both continents.

Chiffon velvet of the finest quality and lustrous satin have been the materials, with the addition of fur and embroidery, used with taste and discrimination. Fur is used to accentuate the winter mode in evening gowns and wraps, but always with apparent restraint and not as introducing a novelty. It is shown on some beautiful yet quite conventional models from Worth, Paquin and Lucien Lelong.

The velvet and fur combination is one intended distinctly for the town season, and the relief to this mode is the lame costume. Metallic fabrics in many variants are shown among the latest models, gowns and wraps designed by artists in Paris and on this side that differ not in any startling particular but quite distinctly from the general trend of the styles that were brought out earlier in the season. Vionnet has departed from the mode that has come to be accepted as characteristically her own in the use of lame for evening gowns, and in wraps especially, in which she has much in favor at the moment for town wear, will be seen also at the Southern resorts. The solidly spangled gowns will be included in the wardrobes for Palm Beach and the other fashionable watering places, but the models that are being especially designed for the short Southern season are much lighter and softer in type. They are the crisp taffetas, the satins, voiles, crepes and georgettes, which are employed by all of the best designers. Molyneux and Yteb cling to lame as a combination with satin and taffeta, to which is given a certain dash and style, but other Parisian houses are adding but a touch of metal and crystal to the lighter materials in evening gowns. Jeanne Lanvin has brought out a sensational version of her period gown, one of black taffeta flounced from belt to hem, exceedingly bouffant, and lifted in front. The bodice remains the same plainly fitted affair, but is dropped lower at one side and the whole is given the modish metal touch with two enormous silver roses with a streamer of silver ribbon at one side of the skirt.

With this and other models from Lanvin is shown the big ruff of tulle attached to a jeweled collar at the back of the neck. An evening gown from Callot Soeurs is of pale amber satin, made on a slender silhouette heavily embroidered in gold and floss to form a panel the length of the gown, divided to pass over each shoulder. With this is shown in the same collection a contrast in another Lanvin evening gown made of the artist's favorite black taffeta, elaborated with diagonal stripes of silver spangles that completely cover the skirt. The bodice of this gown is of the taffeta, untrimmed and without any shoulder straps.

Glistening Sheath Gowns.

Contrasts in the evening gowns and wraps designed especially for the South are sometimes startling. Against models of the most elaborate type, sheath gowns glistening like gold and silver fish, are simple naive frocks of soft fabrics in gentle draperies. A charming dinner dress from Drecoll is made of white georgette with a scarflike drapery on one shoulder that is caught with a ribbon girdle on one hip and hangs in a slight cascade to form an uneven hem line. This model has no trimming other than a band of lace in the new shade of beige at the back of the bodice.

Droeillet makes an evening dress of maize-tinted chiffon with bands of bead embroidery lining the girdle and the surplice waist drapery. Molyneux, who has been doing some important things in trousseaux and elaborate evening costume this season, has swung to the opposite type in some lovely gowns of chiffon and lace. One especially attractive dinner gown is made all of black lace in tiers, with a swaying scarf drapery at one side of the back and a large chiffon flower garniture, both in yellow beige.

The long narrow scarf in a galaxy of colors and the square in quaint prints are necessary adjuncts for wear with dress, suit or coat.

Fringe Trimming Used.

Fringe is very fashionable this season, and is used with equal success on both gowns and wraps for evening, in long silk strands and in the narrow fringe of beads. On a simple cut gown of cameo-pink satin Jenny uses row upon row of fringe in crystal and jet beads, covering the skirt from the girdle to the hem and leaving the bodice untrimmed except at the neck and armholes which are outlined with a single row of the beads. One of the most effective evening gowns shown among the models intended for the South is of American design in pale yellow crape having a surplice bodice and a skirt slightly draped at one side, all trimmed with deep silk fringe in the same shade as the gown. The lifted line of the skirt forms a cascade of the fringe, which is caught with a cluster of velvet roses in deeper shades of yellow on which are sprinkled topaz jewels like dewdrops.

Pearl buckles have returned to favor and serve as fastenings for jersey and velvet frocks.

In Later Years of Life

Good Elimination is More Than Ever Important.

As we grow older, there is apt to be a gradual slowing up of bodily functions. The kidneys are the blood filters. Proper function cleanses the blood stream thoroughly. Sluggish function is apt to permit some retention of uric acid and other poisons. This tends to make one tired, listless and achy—to have drowsy headaches and dizziness and perhaps a toxic backache. That the kidneys are not functioning properly is often shown by scanty or burning passages. Elderly people recommend Doan's Pills in this condition. This tested diuretic is endorsed the country over. A study of reindeer, their care and breeding, is being made scientifically by veterinarians in Siberia. The Russian natives in Siberia depend upon reindeer for many of their wants. America Leads Nations In Use Of Ice Cream

If any one food may be considered as America's national dish, it is ice cream.

Ice cream is a food particularly adapted to the needs of individuals of all ages, giving as it does the best type of nutrients for the repair of bone, teeth, blood and muscles and for energy.

Today thousands of housewives make their own ice cream. As a consequence, the making of this highly nutritious food at a reduced cost, yet without in any way impairing the product, is of importance.

Home economists have found a means to this end in the use of evaporated milk. There are three important reasons why evaporated milk makes the best ice cream, they point out. Because 60 per cent of the natural water in evaporated milk has been removed by evaporation, there is over twice the percentage of solids present in this type of milk than there is in ordinary market milk—and, since it is the solids that give ice cream its pleasing flavor, this fact is of moment.

Then, the composition of evaporated milk has been put through an homogenizing process, which breaks up the fat globules into tiny particles and distributes them evenly throughout the milk. This attribute makes for an ice-cream mixture of uniform quality and fine texture.

Finally, experts agree that the use of evaporated milk in ice cream contributes to its hygienic qualities, for the reason that evaporated milk is entirely sterile. Health authorities declare that milk and cream should be treated to a heat of 150 degrees F. for half an hour in order that a product may be produced free from infective organisms. Evaporated milk is processed at 240 degrees for 30 minutes, and, therefore, its introduction into an ice-cream mixture increases its purity in proportion to the amount of evaporated milk used.

affords a window seat or fernery within. Every room has windows on two sides, giving cross-ventilation. The house is insulated, walls and roof, with asbestos as protection against cold and waste of fuel in the winter, and the hot rays of the sun in summer. The floors are hardwood throughout, and have a layer of asbestos placed between them to deaden noises within the house, a feature that is especially appreciated where there are small children and noisy boys in the house.

The living room has an open fireplace and built-in book case. The porch or sun room may open off the living room or dining room, and can well have a sleeping porch above it extra sleeping quarters are needed. The service entry is conveniently placed at the side, to save the housewife steps. The kitchen has built-in cupboards, ironing-board and breakfast-nook.

SECOND FLOOR PLAN

On Sunday evening Feb. 13th there will be a set of pictures and a talk on "The Life of Abraham Lincoln".

Last Sunday evening there was a good representation present from the Worth Community Church. The Orland and Worth choirs participated in the service and both gave a special selection. The pastor of the Worth church, Reverend Paul Sanders delivered the communion meditation. He stressed particularly the healing and comforting power of the Christian life which is symbolized in the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. He also invited the Orland church to unite in a union service at the Worth Church on Sunday Feb. 27. This invitation was publicly and officially accepted by the pastor of the Orland M. E. Church.

It is reported that Mrs. David Agate is expected back from the Silver Cross Hospital at Joliet this week.

Gordon Kay is still confined to the Burnside Hospital and will probably be there for several weeks yet.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Richards left for Chicago on Wed. of last week to visit a brother of Mr. Richards and have now moved to Sibley, Illinois where Mr. Richards has accepted a position with the Wabash Railroad at the Sibley depot.

Clarence E. Beagley of Orland was one of the forty-three dealers chosen from hundreds of dealers in the United States to be placed on the Honor Roll of the Radio Corporation of America.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Beagley attended the opera Don Giovanni Thursday evening.

Not only was the evening highly entertaining, but profitable to those of us who attended. The Ladies Aid is greatly pleased with the financial proceeds. Our thanks are to all who helped, and particularly to the Hall's for their kind service.

PRECEDING CHAPTERS

Harry Ormerod, proscribed traitor to King George as a Stuart partisan, returning from France to London, rescues Alderman Robert Juggins from assassins. Juggins proves to be the grandson of a former steward of Ormerod's father, to whom Ormerod feels himself indebted. Ormerod tells Juggins he has abandoned the Stuart cause. Juggins informs him of a Jacobite plot in the American colonies to weaken England by forwarding French interests. At its head is Andrew Murray, a Scotsman, and a Frenchman, De Veulle, deadly enemy of Ormerod. The two are in London furthering their schemes. Anticipating the plotters' return to America, Juggins arranges for Ormerod to go there with letters to Governor Burnet, friend of Juggins, and work to foil Murray. Disguised as Juggins' servant, Ormerod takes passage to America. On the ship he meets a girl, Murray's daughter, ardent Jacobite, who believes him to be loyal to the Stuarts. De Veulle recognizes Ormerod and exposes him. Taken by surprise, Ormerod is thrown overboard by the deck in safety. He accuses Murray of inciting Tom to murder him, but of course can prove nothing. A truce is declared until the vessel reaches New York.

"That is true," I assented. "There is somewhat I must venture to observe upon, if you will permit me," he continued detachedly. "You are a youth of boldness and courage. You possess intelligence. You may go far in the provinces, always supposing you do not succeed in winning a pardon. I opine that a pardon might be won if you went about it in the right way. There are gentlemen at Whitehall, who—"

His hesitation was eloquent. "And you would suggest?" I asked him, faintly amused as I perceived the drift of his intention.

"Think well before you commit yourself to this venture. You cannot hope to overcome me. Why, the governor of this province, with all the semiregal powers at his command, has failed to balk me in my plans. My influence is no less in London. If you continue as you have begun you will end in fear, in an early grave. I say it not as a threat. 'Tis merely a prediction."

"I fear me I should lose your good opinion did I take your advice," I replied.

He looked me straight in the eyes. "You would," he said curtly, and he turned on his heel and left me.

Three hours later we lay at anchor in the East river under the lee of Nutter Island, which some called the Governor's because it was a part of his official estate. Small boats landed us at a wharf on a canal which ran up into the town along the middle of Broad street. From here I had my baggage carried by a waterman to the George tavern in Queen street, which he recommended as being favored by the gentry.

Murray's party I overheard giving directions for the conduct of their effects to Cawston's tavern in Hanover square.

After a meal I inquired of Master Kurt van Dam, the proprietor of the George, where I might find Governor Burnet. Van Dam was a broad-bodied, square-headed Dutchman. He sat in the ordinary, smoking a long clay pipe.

"Der gofornor is at Capt'n van Horne's," he said, and immediately replaced his pipe in his mouth.

"And where is Capt'n van Horne's house?" I asked.

"In the Broad-Vay not far oop from der fort. You walk across through Hanover square."

I thanked him and walked forth.

In Hanover square, which was only a few steps distant, there was a crowd collected about the entrance to Cawston's tavern. Murray was standing in the doorway, Tom on one side of him, and a huge, red-haired giant in buckskin, with knife and tomahawk at his belt on the other. I stared at the red-haired man, for he was the first woodsman I had seen, observing with curiosity his shaggy locks and fur cap and the brutal ferocity of his face.

I stared so long that I attracted the attention of Murray, who broke off his conversation with the group surrounding him, and with a pale smile pointed me out to his buckskin retainer. The man scowled at me, and one hand went to his knife-hilt.

I spoke to the citizen nearest me. "Pray, sir, who is the tall fellow in buckskin on the steps?"

The man edged away from me suspiciously.

"I am a stranger in your town," I added.

"'Tis a frontiersman," he replied reluctantly; "one called 'Red Jack' Bolling."

"An ugly knave," I commented. But the citizen only eyed me askance, and I walked on. I was passing through Bridge street, with the leading tree-boughs overhead and the walls of Fort George before me, when another and smaller crowd rounded the corner from the Broad-Vay, a street which formed the principal thoroughfare of the town and took its name from the wide space between the house-walls.

In the lead came an Indian. He was the first of his race I chanced to see, and sure, 'tis strange that we were destined to be friends—aye, more than friends, brethren of the same clan. He was a large man, six feet in his moccasins, and of about the same age as myself. He stalked along, arms swinging easily at his side, wholly impervious to the rabble of small boys who tagged behind, yelling and shrieking at him.

He was naked from the waist up, and on his massive chest was painted in yellow and red pigments the head of a wolf. He wore no other paint, and he was weaponless, except for the tomahawk and knife which hung at his belt.

The children danced around him so many little animals. They never touched him, but some of the more venturesome hurled pebbles from the walk at his brawny shoulders. I cannot repeat the catch-calls and rhymes which they employed, some of them too disgusting for print.

I looked to see some citizen intervene, but several who sat on their doorsteps or lounged in front of shops, smoking the inevitable pipe, viewed the spectacle with indifference or open amusement.

My wrath boiled over, and I charged down upon the tormentors. "Be off," I shouted. "Have you no proper play to occupy your time?"

They fled hilariously, pleased rather than outraged by the attack, after the perverse habit of children who prefer always to be noticed instead of ignored, and I was proceeding on my way when I was dumfounded by hearing the Indian address me.

"Hold, brother," he said in perfect English, but with a certain thick guttural accent. "Ta-wan-ne-ars would thank you."

"You speak English!" I exclaimed. A light of amusement gleamed in his eyes, although his face remained expressionless as a mask.

"You do not think of the Indian as these ignorant little ones do?" he asked curiously.

"I—I know nothing of your people," I stammered. "I am but this day landed here."

"My brother is an Englishman?" he questioned, not idly but with the courteous interest of a gentleman.

"Ta-wan-ne-ars thanks you, Englishman." He extended his hand.

Excess of Gratitude Not a Common Fault

Gratitude, in many people, is only a strong and secret desire for further favors. I believe it was Goethe who wrote: "He who is not grateful for a favor may be likened to one who muddies the spring from which his thirst was quenched."

When gratitude, I heard another say, has become a matter of reasoning, there are many ways of escaping its bonds. This is only another manner of saying that he who expects gratitude is a merchant, not a benefactor. Gratitude, which the ancients always painted in the brightest colors, is one's duty, but it is not an inalienable right one is at liberty to exact. Honore de Balzac, in probably one of his less lucid moments, wrote that

"Your kindness was the greater because you obeyed it by instinct."

I regarded him with increasing amazement. Who was this savage who talked like a London courtier?

"I helped you," I said, "because you were a stranger in a strange city, and by the laws of hospitality your comfort should be assured."

"That is the law of the Indian, Englishman," he answered pleasantly; "but it is not the law of the white man."

"It is the law our religion teaches," I remonstrated. "I go now to Governor Burnet. I shall ask him to make a law that Indians shall be as safe from mockery as from violence in New York."

"Governor Burnet is a good man. My brother will speak to friendly ears."

"You call me brother," I said. "I have no friends in this land. May I call you brother?"

That wonderful expression of burning intelligence lighted his face again.

"My brother has befriended Ta-wan-ne-ars. Ta-wan-ne-ars is his friend and brother. Ta-wan-ne-ars will not forget."

He raised his right hand arm high in the gesture of greeting or farewell, and we separated.

CHAPTER V

The Governor in Council

Where Garden street crosses the Broad-Vay I met the town belfringer brandishing his bell. I approached him with a request for the location of Captain van Horne's house.

"Do you but follow your nose straight before you," he directed me, "until you come to the red-brick mansion with the yellow-brick walk this side of the Green lane. That is his."

The negro servant who answered my knock admitted that the governor was within.

"But Massa Burnet done hab de gentlemen ob de council wid him jus' now, sah," he added doubtfully.

"I am this minute landed with letters for the governor from London," I said.

"Oh, bery well, sah. Dat be a different matter. Massa Burnet be plumb glad to see yo'. Dis way, please."

He ushered me into the wide hallway and knocked on the door of the first room on the right.

"Enter," roared a jovial bass voice. The negro threw open a leaf of the door and stood aside.

"Dis gentlemen done jus' lan' 'om London wid letters fo' yo' excellency," he announced.

I saw before me a group of eight men gathered around a dinner-table, which was spread with maps and papers in place of eatables. At the head sat the man of the bass voice, ruddy-faced, comfortable in girth, with the square forehead of the thinker and the high jaw of the man of action.

"I am Governor Burnet, sir," he said. "Who are you?"

"These letters will explain, your excellency," I replied.

I tendered them to him. "Hah, from Master Juggins!" he exclaimed with heightened interest. "You sailed on the New Venture?"

"Yes, your excellency—with Master Murray."

"That is well. Be seated, sir; be seated," ordered the governor as he slit the packet.

I found a chair by the fireplace, and watched in silence whilst he read through the close-writ pages, with an occasional word or interjection to the others, who had risen from their places and were clustered about him. They were, as I afterward learned, the most prominent men of the governor's faction in the province, who strove to clinch the control of the fur trade in English hands.

"So! Humph!"

The governor laid down the covering letter which accompanied the detailed report of the operations of Murray in London.

"You are Master—"

He examined the letter again.

"Humph! Yes."

He turned from me to his councillors.

"It is apparent from what Master Juggins has writ that Murray has triumphed, gentlemen, even if not so absolutely as he would have our citizens believe. However, we know the worst, and we may prepare for it. If I may have your indulgence, I would crave an adjournment of our meeting to enable me to discuss some aspects of the situation more intimately with Master Juggins' messenger."

Ormerod is to get an inkling of the power an unscrupulous man can wield by the employment of superstition to influence an ignorant people and attain leadership.

THE PRACTICE OF CHRISTIAN STEWARDSHIP

LESSON TEXT—Matt. 25:14-30.

GOLDEN TEXT—Thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things. Enter thou into the joy of thy Lord.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Story of the Three Servants.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Three Stewards and How They Kept Their Trust.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What It Means to Be a Steward.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Scope and Spirit of Christian Stewardship.

Stewardship here includes oneself and substance. Stewardship in money is only a small part of our responsibility. This parable like that of the ten virgins is associated with the second coming of Christ. In both instances the unpreparedness for His coming on the part of the people is exhibited. In that of the ten virgins their unpreparedness consisted in their failure of inward life—absence of the Holy Ghost. In this of the talents it consisted in their failure to properly use the gifts which had been entrusted to them. The first was failure to watch; the second was failure to work. By talents is meant whatever gifts and powers one possesses as gifts from God, whether of nature or grace, such as strength, reason, energy, knowledge, influence, time, money, ability to speak, sing, etc.

1. The Distribution of the Talents (vv. 14, 15).

1. It was a sovereign act. He called his own servants and distributed to them his own money. As the One who created us and absolutely owns us, He has assigned us our places and given us our several powers, intending that we put them to the best possible use.

2. It was an intelligent act. "According to his several ability." The God who made us knew our ability to use gifts, therefore has made the distribution upon that basis.

3. It was a purposeful act. The talents were given to be traded with. They were not given to be used for one's own gain and profit, but as stock in trade for the enrichment and glory of the Master.

11. The Employment of the Talents (vv. 16-18).

1. All the servants recognized that the talents were not their own—that they were responsible to the Lord for the use made of them.

2. Two servants used their talents. The five-talented man put his to use and gained five more. The two-talented man put his to use and gained two more. This shows that God's gifts can be increased. The exercise of any gift increases it. The faithful use of what we have in the place we are will prepare us for greater usefulness and honor.

3. The one hid his talent. The fact that one possesses but one talent should not discourage him, but should make him strive harder. God does not reward according to what we possess, but according to our faithfulness. The crime of the one talented man was not that he had but one talent, but that he hid the talent which the Lord gave him.

111. The Accounting for the Talents (vv. 19-30).

1. Its certainty. There is a day coming when we all must give an account of our stewardship.

2. The time. This will be at the coming of the Lord. If we have done well, we shall then have praise. If we have been unfaithful, we shall then be cast out from the presence of the Lord.

3. The judgments announced.

(1) Reward of the faithful. (a) Praise—"Well done." We all like to be praised. From childhood on through life commendation is pleasing. (b) Promotion—"Be thou ruler over many things." Promotion is desirable to all. (c) Entrance upon the joy of the Lord. The five talented man and the two talented man received the same praise and the same promotion.

(2) Punishment of the faithless. The one talented man lied when brought to account. The talent when dug up was not the same as when it was buried—it was not of the same weight. Gifts unused are lost. (a) Reproach—he was called slothful and wicked. To be called lazy is a reproach which even the lazy man dislikes. (b) Stripped—the talent which was given to him was taken from him. (c) Cast out—he was condemned on his own ground. The very fact that he knew the character of the Lord should have been an incentive for him to have exerted himself.

Pray More

NOW You can buy Radiola 20 For $78

RCA Makes This Offer as a Special Contribution to More Widespread Enjoyment of the Vastly Improved Broadcasting Programs of the Day

QUALITY RECEPTION FOR QUALITY BROADCASTING

From its first appearance a year and a half ago Radiola 20 has been an acknowledged leader. When it was designed, high standards of radio performance took precedence over mere price considerations. Now Radiola 20—with all its high standards—is put in the lower price field.

Radiola 20 was created by the same engineers (RCA, Westinghouse, General Electric) who are responsible for the construction of the greatest broadcasting stations. It provides 100 per cent home reception of broadcast programs.

MAY BE EQUIPPED TO OPERATE FROM YOUR LIGHTING SOCKET

Radiola 20 can be operated with batteries, or with lighting socket devices. This, of course, does not affect the musical performance of Radiola 20 one way or another.

It is merely a matter of personal preference. You can buy Radiola 20 at this price and then equip it with devices for operating from your lighting socket, or use batteries.

TWENTY TIMES AS SELECTIVE AS THE ORDINARY ANTENNA SET

In building Radiola 20 special attention was made to securing a degree of selectivity which would meet the conditions brought about by the increasing number of broadcasting stations.

You get the stations you want and only the stations you want. For average reception, Radiola 20 provides ONE DIAL TUNING. For far-off stations, there are two minor controls for sharper tuning.

Do not buy any radio set just because of its price. Or just because you happen to live near a certain shop or store. Compare Radiola 20 with any set you find for sale at any price. Let us demonstrate Radiola 20 and you will quickly see and note the difference.
